Williams—Pharis

Champion United church was a perfect setting for the wedding of Rita Kate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pharis, and William Arthur Williams, son of Mr. A. Williams of Wales, on Sunday, Sept. 6th at 2:30 p.m.

Rev. Peter Dawson officiated and Miss Marjorie McCullough played Lohengrin's wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father was a lovely young woman of white chiffon veil and carried a colonial bouquet of Madam Butterfly roses. The long white wedding veil was cap shaped and held by a wreath of orange blossoms.

Miss Morag McDougall and Miss Lillian Orientt, nieces of the bride, acted as flower girls and carried bouquets of sweet peas with white chiffon ribbons.
They chose floor length gowns of silk organdy in pale green and pink respectively.

The groom was attended by Mr. Miles Pharis, brother of the bride. The ushers were Mr. Irl Ditto and Mr. Donald Campbell.

During the signing of the register the organist played
"Melody of Love."

After the wedding the guests were entertained at a reception at the bride's home, where a three tier wedding cake centred the artistically decorated table.
It was presided over by the bride's mother in a gown of may and sand crepe.

The bride's going away ensemble was brown and sand crepe, trimmed with orange buttons with brown hat and accessories.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. Orientt and children, Lillian, Howard and Joyce; Mr. and Mrs. Miles Pharis; Mrs. R.
Champion and Miss Pearl Thomas, Champion; Alta; Miss M. Wild lions, Pincher Creek; Alta; Mr.
and Mrs. A. Webb, Calgary; Alta; Miss Morag McDougall and the Rev. J. K. Kidder, Iowa
U.S.A.

The couple left for a short honeymoon at Waterton Lakes and will reside later in the Champion district.

Moffatt Family Now
Citizens Of Lethbridge

With the departure of Mr.
and Mrs. J. M. Moffatt, Eric and Mavis to Lethbridge another prominent family is lost to the district. Mr. and Mrs. Moffatt have been residents of the district for twenty-five years and during their residence here have played a very active part in everything pertaining to the welfare of the community.
Mrs. Moffatt has taken a keen interest in all local organizations including the O. B. S., the Women's Institute and the Lodi's Aid and her departure for Lethbridge will be kindly felt by the members of these organizations.

Mr. Moffatt was one of the most prominent boosters in the community, being at all times prepared to stand behind anything of benefit to the district.
He was a very active member in all local organizations including the Masons and B. P. O.
E., being the first Exalted Ruler of the Elks. It was through Mr. Moffatt's efforts and by the use of his well that irrigation was installed in his section of the town, making it an outstanding beauty mark.
A good man and a good citizen, Mr. Moffatt will be missed by all especially the young people with whom he was very popular. Eric and Mavis were popular members of the younger set, the latter

GRAIN TRADE And Minimum Price

The Western Producer in its issue of September 3rd, referring to the decision of the government in regard to the minimum price for wheat and its reception by Western farmers, says:

"To them and to many of those whom they elected it must have come as a cruel disillusionment to find that their government chose to listen to and be guided by the grain trade and other reactionary elements in their midst, while refusing even to acknowledge the significance of agriculture."

The implication that the grain trade or any section of it has at any time made representations to the government or to the Canadian Wheat Board, or has tendered advice to those bodies, relative to the establishment of the minimum price for wheat at $7 1/2 cents per bushel, or any other figure, is absolutely false.

The interests of wheat producers and of the grain trade are identical in regard to grain prices. The prosperity of the grain trade in Canada is bound up with the prosperity of producers. It has no interest in seeing producers at a disadvantage. The minimum price for wheat should be a matter to be decided by the Government in having in view the loss which it might be prepared to sustain in the event of a decline in world wheat values. The grain trade has repeatedly stated that if producers must be assisted to overcome the adverse conditions existing in the market it and excessively low prices. But it has been opposed to attempts to fix the price of wheat at a minimum and grain should be offered in the export market or to hold Canadian wheat at prices above its relative value in world markets because such attempts must result in (a) loss of markets and diminution of sales, (b) the creation of unnecessary surpluses, (c) eventual loss both to producers and taxpayers, and (d) the development of an economic and high-cost production by our competitors.

In the continuance of the open market for grain and the pressure of every available channel through which Canadian grain can be sold to be found a guarantee of the best returns to Canadian producers. To maintain such returns is as much the desire and interest of the grain trade as of the producers themselves.

There is room for honest difference of opinion as to what the minimum price should be. But there is no justification for false imputations of motive and act.

Local Line Elevators

A Matter Of Principle

If grain growers do not fight for their own interests, who will aid them?

The Alberta Wheat Pool is continually striving to improve the lot of the grain growers.

Better protection and better prices is the objective sought.

The Pool is the only grain handling organization keeping up the battle. It fights alone, among commercial concerns, for a living wage for grain growers.

The grain growers can most effectively help by delivering their grain to

A Quid Pro Quo

If the Dominion government is to open the gates ajar for the admittance of more British migrants to Canada on a colonization basis, it would seem appropriate to suggest that any agreement which may be made should include some provision for the sale of more Canadian produce in the Old Country.

From the viewpoint of Western Canada where new settlers must necessarily engage in a competitive venture with farmers who, in recent years at least, have been forced to offer their wares in narrowing markets, such a proposal would only be a reasonable quid pro quo for accepting new settlers.

It is true that colonization schemes in general and the Hornby scheme in particular, which are now being mooted and are apparently being accorded serious consideration in some quarters, contemplate safeguards to ensure that for at least five years after admittance to the country migrants would not sell the minerals they find—and are still staggering—under an accumulating burden of indebtedness.

Such colonization schemes, insofar as the west is concerned, have land settlement as their objective which means, of course, that the newcomers will be engaged in the production of agricultural commodities. If they are successful in their efforts the volume of produce offered for sale must necessarily increase, a resultant tendency to reduce returns to all producers of similar commodities.

The only way that this trend can be offset is the creation of new or expansion of existing markets for such produce and the latter might be attained by agreements which will ensure that the products of the prairie provinces of Canada will be promoted in the city from which these migrants come. Such agreements, if concluded, coupled with rigid guarantees that the new settlers will be self-supporting, might be expected to at least minimize any indirect loss which the older settlers would sustain as a result of ensuing competition.

New Zealanders, who have been soundly out on the subject of British migration to their country have something of the kind in mind, as evidenced by the report of William Teeling, who recently visited Australia and New Zealand to examine opportunities for British settlement in the two Antipodean countries, for, with respect to New Zealand, he is quoted in a recent issue of the London Times as stating:

"From both these Dominions I came away with the impression of young people who were most convinced of the future of their race, convinced that they had something to offer to the world, to their neighbors in the Far East, and convinced that they still had a lot to do in their own countries before they were ready to admit too many strangers. They seemed, however, quite willing to admit a few under careful and proper auspices."

"It struck me that the best opening was in New Zealand, and that there it could only be achieved through the New Zealand Government (no other large body being sufficiently interested) and by a definite economic bargain for the purchase of New Zealand goods."

With regard to going into detail of the reasons advanced, Mr. Teeling found that prospective British migration to Australia were practically hopeless at the present time.

Thus it would appear that any British colonization in New Zealand must necessarily be very limited and must be accompanied by an economic pact as between producer and consumer that should certainly be given weight by Canadian authorities before any agreement is entered into for substantial colonization in this country.

Proponents of further colonization in this country have argued that new settlers are consumers as well as producers. This is true, but if they are to be successful in their efforts there must be a market. If no market can be found for the excess production somewhere. If they do not produce more than they consume, colonization is for them a failure and it would be better for them and the country, if the scheme were abandoned before birth.

Professor Makes Discovery

Finds Green Peppers Contain The Precious Vitamin C

The green peppers that Professor Albert Azeny-Gyergyi, Szeged, Hungary, spurned at dinner one night have given the chief source of precious vitamin C he had sought for a long time.

On that particular evening his wife had revoked her ban on his after-hours work, and he retired to his laboratory to continue his researches. He had almost everything available—and found what he wanted in the vegetables that abounded in the neighborhood.

In a few weeks he managed to grow a crop of green peppers from 4,000 pounds of green peppers which, he discovered, have four times the vitamin C content of oranges and lemons, and are cheaper.

Does the 4,000 to one odds against an air raid on London, quoted by Lloyd's, mean that the British air raid is better than London has been telling the world it is?

Not Very Long Ago

Boston Had By-Law Prohibiting Bathing Without Doctor's Order

Clearly Anglo-Saxons, both sides of the Atlantic have been shocked at the revelation, that an American plumber who has just returned from a European tour, that though the Hofburgzern Palace at Vienna has 200 rooms there are only two bath-rooms in it. And the plumber found, also in Germany, a castle of 260 rooms which had no bath-room at all.

But there was a time when the Boston city fathers passed a by-law forbidding anyone to have a bath except by doctor's orders and this was not repealed till 1862. Again, just over 100 years ago, the good folks of London asked for a shower bath to be installed at the Mansion House the request was refused, as "the need of same has not been heretofore complained of."—London Answers.

Building Without Stairs

Will Have Ramp So Car Park On Any Floor

Hatchways, which can be used to any floor and houses with more than one floor, but no stairs, are being designed in London. The buildings will have ramps like those in some large garages. Last year, designed by architect, that their plan will be away with traffic congestion, make it possible for dwellers to drive their own cars into the building and park them outside their doors. Not only will car parks, and parking overhead roads, be built, but an architect, Dr. M. Hoening, already designs on his principle are being put up in Leeds, England and in France. The Leeds building will cost £100,000, will have a 100-car garage in the basement and a motion picture theatre. Cars can be driven right into the building, according to any floor.

Little Animal Has Courage

Man Tells How Gopher Rescued His Helpful Mate

The gopher, unassuming and somewhat raty animal, attains heroic status among that class of birds, a better name says A. D. Bain, superintendent of a chain of bungalow camps in the Canadian Rockies.

On a recent inspection trip, Bain said as he approached a camp in the middle of the rocky ledge, nearby stood another of the little animals, bristling and showing his teeth, although he was a gopher put his teeth into the scruff of his dying mate and dragged her to the safety of the long grass beside the mountain road.

Lighning Kills Birds

Found Underneath Large Tree Which Was Not Struck

Included in the list of the effects of the severe lightning storm which struck Raleigh, North Carolina, was the electrocution of between fifty and sixty sparrows roosting in a tree which was not struck by lightning. The bird was not the only victim of the large tree. Since the tree was not struck it was the heavily charged air, coupled with the current given off by electric wires in the vicinity, resulted in the electrocution.

Gives Excellent Results

Excellent results from blood-test and poultry flocks are reported from Britain. Colenso, a breeder in British Columbia, who has his stock blood-tested last fall at a cost of $16 sold hatchery eggs to the value of $608 to one of the commercial hatcheries. At a sale of Record of Ontario breeder to a breeder in the United States, R.O.P. certified females sold for $5 each and an R.O.P. male for $15.

Just Recently Known

Twenty-five per cent of the vegetables and fruits people eat were unknown even ten years ago. They come from regions of remote parts that didn't exist a decade past. Cantaloupes, for instance; a popular item on many tables. A few years ago it was unknown. A scientist, however, produced them because they were affected by a mildew. A scientist discovered species in India that resisted mildew, and by cross breeding, made the plants of this continent.

Several hundred suggestions for a King George Memorial Fund have been received by the Lord Mayor of London and he and the King George Memorial Fund is considering them. Among the suggestions is the building of a square, King George Square, removing Nelson's Column and the lions to Tower Hill, erecting statues of King George and his four sons, and placing the Cenotaph in the centre of the square. village "was considered tantamount to ordering withdrawal of the wheat board from fulfilling the function for which it was formed."

The Pool board expressed the opinion that the federal government in its action failed to consider its pre-election promise to market wheat at world levels and return to the growers in Canada a price commensurate with the cost of production.

"What the government's move virtually amounts to," the Pool directors stated, "is an order to the western wheat growers to accept financial rewards for their labor based on world levels. What other class in Canada, outside primary producers, are thus treated?"

"We feel that the policy of the government is reactionary and that the interests of the wheat growers are not receiving the consideration they are entitled to, particularly in view of the considerable treatment given to wheat growers by the governments of virtually every other important wheat growing country in the world."

"The Pool obtained a wheat board after a long struggle and view its forthcoming disintegration with alarm and regret. The world wheat problem is not solved by any means and Canada needs an active and progressive wheat board."

The Feeding Value of Concentrates

Concentrates such as linseed oilcake and grain serve a valuable purpose in making a limited supply of rough feed go much further than it otherwise would.

For mature cattle one pound of oilcake will replace five to six lbs. of hay in the maintenance ration. Thus a cow can be maintained on ten to twelve pounds of hay and one pound of oilcake per day. One lb. of oilcake will replace two to three pounds of grain in the ration.

One-third of a pound of oilcake per head per day has been fed to calves receiving all the straw they would eat, and good results have been obtained. A little pruniness was evident in the spring but normal growth and gains were made on green grass. Cows in fair condition can be well wintered on all the straw they will eat and one lb. of oilcake per day. If straw is available, in many cases it would be more economical to purchase oilcake than hay at ten dollars per ton to help cattle through a severe spell of winter.

A little grain mixed with the oilcake for the first few days will help the cattle to get accustomed to it. The muted form of oilcake can be fed in the snow with little waste, but it is recommended that a trough be used in which to feed the ground oilcake.

Observations made in feeding one third of a pound of this supplement in the daily ration for calves are that they carry more bloom, are brighter and in a better condition to withstand a bad storm in the spring of the year.
